

FiBAN data sharing policy

General principles

- All FiBAN's data is processed and stored anonymously. Only the personnel at the FiBAN office where access to line-specific data is required to perform job tasks have access to the line-specific data.
- All data handed over to FiBAN is processed confidentially and its storage and destruction is handled professionally.
- Ownership, copyright and other intellectual property rights of the material provided by FiBAN belong to FiBAN, but FiBAN may grant full access rights (mentioning the source).

Companies

The above mentioned principles apply. In addition to these:

- In principle, the intended use should promote angel investing.
- The entity must be a non-profit or public sector entity that does not seek commercial advantage using FiBAN data.
- The ownership of the data remains with FiBAN and the data cannot be used without a separate written consent of FiBAN each time the data is used.
- Data from private companies (or management companies) will not be disclosed to third parties without the explicit consent of the parties.
- FiBAN must get rights to use the research output if material provided by FiBAN has been utilized.

Members

The above mentioned principles apply. In addition to these:

- In principle, no raw data is distributed to members.
- Aggregated data available on FiBAN web pages can be shared without consent from the board.
- All data requests from members should go through an appointed employee of the FiBAN office.
- In special situations, where the appointed employee at the office sees it justified, a data request may be submitted to the FiBAN Board for decision, in which case an exemption may be granted for sharing data.

Others (for example other individuals, thesis writers)

All the above mentioned principles apply. In principle, only publicly available data is shared. In special situations, where the appointed employee at the office sees it justified, a data request may be submitted to the FiBAN Board for decision, in which case an exemption may be granted for sharing data. FiBAN may charge costs incurred by collecting and delivering data, such as use of time.
